ACID RAIN

Environmental issue of the '80s is overshadowed by recession

by Russ Duhaime

What ever happened to acid rain?

The environmental issue of the 1980s has virtually faded to obscurity in the 1990s. And along with the low profile have come funding and staffing cuts for research.

Where there were once 80 to 100 people working on acid rain research, there are now about 20. Funding has been cut from a high of $10 million in 1984 to just $1.5 million this year. It's also noteworthy that acid rain hasn't even been mentioned as an issue in the current federal election campaign.

Environment Canada's centre in Dorset -- once a world leader in research on acid precipitation -- has now shifted its focus to other issues. "We're regrouping," says Neil Hutchinson, a lake scientist in Dorset. The centre is focusing more attention on issues like shoreline development and mercury and less on acid rain.

The question remains: have the efforts of scientists, politicians and assorted environmental lobbyists paid off or have people just grown tired of the fight?

"It's a combination of everything," says Dan Orr, who co-ordinates the few projects still carrying on with the battle. To some degree, the fight against acid rain is a success story, he says, but there are still parts of Ont-

Studios gear up for weekend guests

John Beaudry's work is for the birds, but the high fliers who move into his homes don't seem to mind. Beaudry builds houses and feeders for some of the most discriminating birds in the country and many of these fine structures will be up for sale when he opens his workshop to the public this weekend. Beaudry is one of 38 craftsmen and artist participating in this year's Haliburton County Studio Tour. Now in its sixth year, the tour has earned an outstanding reputation for excellence. With 22 studios to visit, people will have the opportunity to see and buy the works of some of the county's top artisans. The early fall weather also promises glorious scenery for the travel between the studios located throughout the county. The changing leaves are rapidly turning the countryside into a patchwork yellow red and gold and it looks as though the colours will peak just in time for the weekend. Studio tour pamphlets are available in stores throughout the Highlands. These pamphlets contain brief profiles on the artists and a map to help people find their studios. Watch for signs with the studio tour logo to identify the official participants.

Forums ease campaign confusion

The federal election campaign grows more confusing with each passing day in the Victoria-Haliburton riding.

A new candidate joined the race last week, bringing the total to seven candidates in this riding. Two more are expected to join in the running this week, which means voters may be looking at nine names on the October 25 ballot.

To help overcome the confusion, public forums are being held around the riding. So far the candidates have presented themselves and their parties at gatherings in Haliburton and Fenelon Falls. This Wednesday evening, they will be in Minden.

Wednesday's forum is being organized by the Haliburton District Real Estate Board in conjunction with The Times. It will be held at Hyland Crest, starting at 7:30 p.m.

Each of the candidates will have an opportunity to make opening comments, after which the audience will be able to ask questions.

Rheta Jones joins St. Joseph's

'This is a new avenue, but one that I'm looking forward to putting a lot of dedication into.'

Rheta Jones will have no problem keeping busy in her retirement.

The former administrator of Hyland Crest Senior Citizens Home has been appointed to fill Minden's vacant seat on the St. Joseph's Hospital Board, a volunteer position that is bound to consume much of her free time.

In addition to her seat on the hospital board and two of its committees, Jones also becomes a member of the health care planning and development committee.

The position on the board became vacant a few months ago when Minden's representative, Doug Campbell stepped down. Campbell's resignation was based on a disagreement with a controversial decision made by the planning and development committee.

The challenge for Jones will be to get up to speed on an evolving health care system in this county. She will be dealing with decisions about proposed changes to the management of the Minden and Haliburton hospitals, plans and construction of a long-term-care addition to the Haliburton hospital, and proposals to remedy the crowded and decaying structure of the Minden hospital.

It's a big job, but Jones feels confident she can meet the challenge. "This is a new avenue for me, but one that I'm looking forward to putting a lot of dedication into." She says "every challenge in life puts you forward a bit further."

Her background in various branches of the health care field will be a valuable asset, but she says there's still much she needs to learn. "First I need to learn a lot and then I can contribute," she says.

The Ministry of Health is in the throes of altering its approaches to health care, and funding for any projects is a battle. "It's quite a time to be in health care," she says.

Still, Jones says she has more than enough energy to take on the job. After working long hours at Hyland Crest, she's used to the fast pace and is welcoming the opportunity to be involved in the community.

"I want to stay involved in the health care field and I'm very pleased to get this opportunity to serve."

Lindsay Beaudry is working overtime these days in preparation for this weekend's studio tour. Beaudry designs beautiful floral arrangements using many of the wildflowers from this area. She is one of 36 artisans on this year's tour.

Ski club planning new loop near Hart Lodge

The Nordic Trails Association is looking to create some new trails near Hart Lodge but Minden Council is tentative about chipping in on the costs.

The association wants to expand its trails to better serve ski enthusiasts in the Minden area, John Teljeur told council Thursday. It is proposing to create 15 kilometres of new trails near Hart Lodge to provide guests at area resorts with improved skiing opportunities.

The catch, however, is that Minden is being asked to provide a bulldozer to help clear and level the proposed trails. Since Minden does not own a bulldozer, one would have to be rented at a cost of about $40 to $50 per hour.

Minden Reeve Bern Berry sounded skeptical about the proposal. He noted that council provided the association with funds a few years ago to clear a trail from the fair grounds north to Hart Lodge. That trail has seen very little use because of the rough terrain, he said.

Teljeur agreed this trail has experienced limited use, partially because of the terrain. However, the biggest problem with that trail is that it crosses over private land that has recently changed hands and the new landowners are reluctant to grant access.

The trail has been closed for the past two years.

"If one landowner in a key area says you can't go across their property, you're really euchred," said Teljeur. "You can't go in there."

Teljeur said the association is attempting to work something out with the landowners in order to keep the trail open. "The Minden trail is an important link and we don't want to lose it. We can't afford to spend money on a trail and then allow it to be closed."

With 100 kilometres of trails to groom, the Haliburton Nordic Trails Association is one of the largest ski associations in Canada. The bulk of the trails, though, are in the vicinity of Haliburton village, linking up with the resorts in that area.

Teljeur said the plan to build new trails near Hart Lodge is largely due to the enthusiasm of the resort's new owners. Previously, he said there was little incentive to establish trails in the area. Instead of building trails, resort owners directed their guests to the Frost Centre, where an abundance of trails already exist. Since Wayne Cowling bought Hart Lodge, however, there has been renewed interest in the trails to be situated mainly on the resort's property.

Although Minden Council did not jump on the opportunity to assist with the new trail, neither did it reject the idea. Council has instructed its roads superintendent to take a look at the proposed trail and try to determine how much it would cost the municipality to provide a bulldozer. Arena manager Brian Sisson, who was involved in the creation of the existing Minden trail, will also be involved in discussions over this proposal.

The grand opening of D&S Discount's video outlet came a bit earlier than expected as a driver crashed his car through the storefront Thursday night. The car was heading into Minden on South Water Street when the driver fell asleep and failed to stop at the Main Street intersection. The car sped across the street and jumped the curb, barely missing a light post before crashing headlong into the store and coming to a rest next to the display of videos. Alcohol is believed to be a factor in this incident. Damage to the store is extensive.

Toronto man accidentally shot while target practicing

A Scarborough man was accidentally shot last weekend at a Lochlin gravel pit.

Scott Sieger, 31, was target practicing with some friends when he was shot in the lower body by a shotgun.

Sieger was taken to Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay and then transferred to St. Michael's Hospital in Toronto with serious, but not life-threatening injuries.

Neil John Taylor, 32, of Toronto has been charged with careless use of a firearm. Minden OPP say they are still investigating.

Haliburton break-ins

Four break-ins in the Haliburton area are suspected to be linked by Minden OPP. The Ministry of Natural Resources Fire Base, the Haliburton Board of Education Office, the LCBO and Vasey Insurance were all broken into early Sunday morning.

Small amounts of cash were taken from all four places and OPP are still investigating the thefts.

Manning introduces agricultural plan during visit to riding

by Andy Holloway

JANETVILLE - The Reform Party could save $300 million in agricultural spending and still give farmers "a bigger bang for the buck" says Preston Manning.

Manning delivered his agricultural plan to around 75 supporters at the farm of Simon and Kathy Zekfeld, just south of Janetville in Victoria County. The party would consolidate the many government programs supporting agriculture into three categories - unfair trade subsidies from abroad, natural hazards and unavoidable income swings.

The whole program would cost an estimated $2.3 billion which is $300 million less than the federal government spends now.

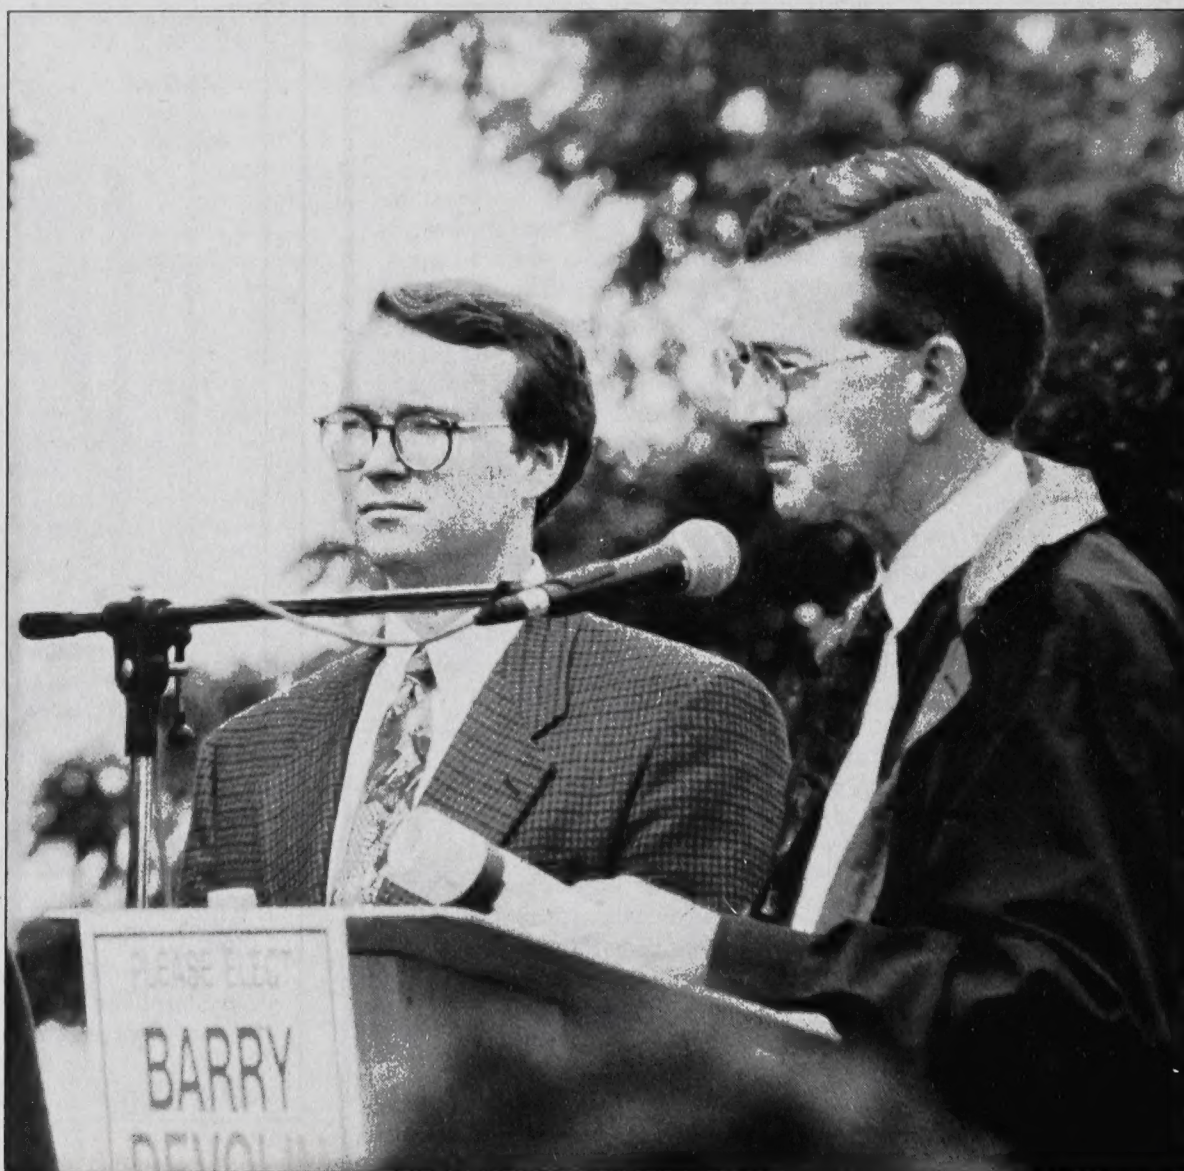

Manning seemed at ease on the farm with local candidate Barry Devolin and the fact that his podium was balanced on two bales of hay on the back of a hay-wagon. The setting was in direct contrast to the mass frenzy that was produced to greet Conservative leader Kim Campbell earlier this month.

However, he did upset a few farmers who asked whether Manning would fight to keep the current quota system that protects Canadian farmers. Manning said he was "not enthusiastic about that" and that he preferred the government to spend time helping farmers adjust to the proposed tariffs as part of the General Agreement of Tariffs and Trade. He said his party would develop protection so that Canadian producers could succeed in a more market driven economy.

While his response may have disappointed a few of the farmers, Manning was cheered for a number of other Reform policies especially a tricky question from one woman who said that she was concerned about the Reform stance on bilingualism. Manning said he would make language a personal decision, like religion, and therefore people could choose whatever they want to speak.

Local candidate Barry Devolin (left) introduced Reform Party leader Preston Manning to supporters at a farm just south of Janetville. Manning was just the second major leader to visit the riding.

Federal Election '93

Each week The Times will ask each of the candidates to respond to a question. This week's question is: Do you feel you have the qualifications to be a cabinet member? If so, what position do you feel qualified to hold? If not, then how would you work with the government?

Lorne Chester, Conservative

I would not turn down a Cabinet position if it were offered, but I believe that with the problems facing this country today the only real and lasting solutions can come from a team effort. I believe that individuals can make a difference. I also believe that when individuals work together with a common goal and greater purpose, even greater accomplishments can be realized.

First and foremost, I will be part of a Kim Campbell team - one committed to bringing prosperity back to this country and to this riding. I will work with a PC government wherever my abilities may best be utilized. If that is within Cabinet, fine. If it is outside Cabinet I will be no less committed to the people of this riding or to the overall goal of prosperity.

John O'Reilly, Liberal

I believe that the first responsibility of an MP is to represent this riding to the best of his/her ability. I am not looking at this election as a stepping stone to the Cabinet. The qualities I am offering to the public include a track record of community involvement; a commitment to family values and a willingness to represent the electorate with honesty, integrity and compassion. If the Prime Minister felt that these qualities would benefit our riding and the country in the cabinet, I would be honoured to serve.

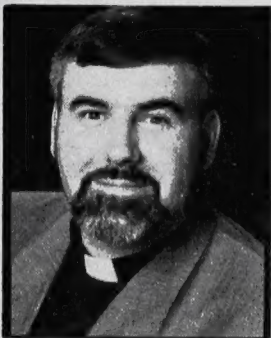

If not in the Cabinet, I would strive to keep abreast of all issues that impact on our riding. I would work to develop a relationship with Cabinet members and other government members. By being actively involved in the process of government, I can ensure the voice of this riding is heard.

Dennis Drainville, Independent

As an Independent member of Parliament I will have no hope whatsoever of being a cabinet minister.

Old fashioned party followers will say, "Then Drainville won't ever have 'power' for this riding." What they really mean, of course, is that I won't be able to get bribes for Victoria-Haliburton by agreeing to support whatever legislative folly (GST?) or backroom deals (NAFTA?) the Prime Minister wants to support.

The other side of the coin is that, as an Independent, I will be free to support common sense proposals and to oppose the foolish or dangerous ones regardless of origin. It's not a matter of working "with" government. I intend to work "for" people.

Martin Doyle, National Party

Yes. There are a number of areas in which I feel qualified to effectively serve the Canadian people, in addition to my duties as MP. Specifically in Communications, Justice, Immigration, External Affairs and International Trade or Environment portfolios.

As a member of the board of directors (1991-1993) of the Alliance of Canadian Television and Radio Artists (ACTRA), I have been closely involved in preparing comprehensive presentations to the CRTC regarding the communications industry. My personal, family and professional experiences over the past 12 years of living and working in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico have given me special insights into the many subjects listed above. I have seen first hand the worst of what our neighbours south of the border have to offer as a model in these areas and I fear Canada is moving disastrously towards imitation.

Barry Devolin, Reform

The cabinet position I want does not exist - yet. The title is Minister for Democratic Reform.

The Reform Party wants to "change the system", not just the faces in Parliament. To do this, several specific rule changes must be implemented and coordinated.

At present, I sit on the Reform Party's Task Force on Democratic Reform. My background in political science and government studies has given me a familiarity with many of the options available to Canada to improve the quality of our democracy. We can learn much from the successes and failures of other democratic nations.

I look forward to the challenge of making our system work better. Reform is long overdue. We must restore a system that allows individual MPs to work for their constituents, rather than their party leaders in Ottawa.

Cathy Vainio, NDP

I think I can bring to a cabinet position a combination of leadership and respect for the expertise and contributions of those people I will be working with. And, just as important, I have a clear agenda based on my party's proposals. For example, as minister of a combined health, education and welfare portfolio, I would ensure that my staff understands the new mandate which is to deliver community-based and community-coordinated social services under a new system of allocating funds. No special pleaders will darken my door if they have greed or self-advancement in mind. If I am not offered a cabinet position, I will work strenuously with my fellow MPs in committees to put forward the agenda we are taking to the electorate in this election. Remember, it was the CCF/NDP which brought medicare, unemployment insurance and seniors' pensions to Canadians.

GST, Tories attacked by residents, candidates

by Andy Holloway

FENELON FALLS - The GST and other Conservative policies came under attack at the second Victoria-Haliburton all-candidates meeting as MP hopefuls took turns criticizing the past eight years of government.

Tory candidate Lorne Chester was kept on the defensive almost the entire night except for his closing statement in which he called the Liberal job plan a "Red Manifesto." He also said those plants which have shut down during the past few years, closed as a result of "poor management and poor ownership" not free trade.

Chester tried to bring the same message when Prime Minister Kim Campbell visited Lindsay's Crayola factory. The firm, which was once Canadian, but was bought by Americans, continues to thrive while many others including Abex and Uniroyal have closed.

Unlike the first candidates meeting in Haliburton a week earlier Chester was not booed, however he did not receive much applause either. The Tories were chastised, however, by questioners and the other candidates.

Liberal John O'Reilly said the "restrictive and regressive" GST has brought in less money than the old Manufacturer's Sales Tax because it costs so much to manage. He said 50 per cent of the collected tax goes towards paying workers to collect it, unlike the old MST which cost just 5 per cent.

"I don't know how the GST and growth can be said in the same breath," said O'Reilly. "It took a lot of money out of your pockets and it went nowhere."

The Liberals would replace the tax so that it was "fair and equitable and understandable" said O'Reilly, although specifics were not forthcoming.

Chester on defensive at candidates meeting

The NDP promises to get rid of the GST in five years, said Cathy Vainio. "The whole thing was a mistake from the start. We didn't want it and we'll get rid of it."

Meanwhile National Party candidate Martin Doyle said the GST would be gone the day after his party was elected into power. Most of the 240 people in attendance applauded all three for pledging to remove the tax.

Even Canada Party candidate Charles Olito got into the act calling the GST one of the big Tory "lies". Olito said a single manageable retail tax is needed and that a minimum tax on corporations would be used to offset losses.

The Conservative plan to cut the debt in five years also came under attack as did the $5.8 billion helicopter purchase. Fenelon Falls resident Ross Jones called the Tory deficit plan "a pile of you-know-what, but Chester said his leader was committed to reducing the deficit. Later, in response to another question, Chester said abuses of the welfare system must stop including students on welfare which pleased the crowd a little although several people cat-called "What about corporate welfare."

Martin Doyle said the deficit plan was nonsense because only three per cent of the government's expenditures currently go towards social services. Doyle said 50 per cent goes to paying off the debt and another 44 per cent is caused by corporate tax loopholes.

Chester also defended his party's planned helicopter purchase saying it is needed by the country. Independent Dennis Drainville had a different outlook and said the only reason the Tories want to buy the helicopters is to please

Quebec where they are on shaky ground. "Quebec has the sub-contracts so the PCs do not want to end these sub-contracts because they'll get bad press in Quebec," said Drainville.

The meeting was sponsored by the Citizen's Open Circle.

Add one more candidate

Charles Olito, The Canada Party.

Add another candidate to an already crowded list of hopefuls in Victoria-Haliburton.

Mariposa Township resident Charles Olito representing the Canada Party made his first appearance last Tuesday at an all-candidates meeting in Fenelon Falls and quickly earned a reputation for being somewhat of a loose cannon. He made people chuckle as he criticized the major parties.

Some of the party's policies include repealing the GST, spending money to get Canada out of the recession, stopping official bilingualism and multiculturalism and providing interest-free loans to municipalities for public works.

Olito's candidacy brings the total of candidates to seven with at least two more expected to join the race.

A neat trick

Liberal candidate John O'Reilly keeps one eye on the camera and one eye on a prospective voter while in Minden last Thursday morning. O'Reilly was outside the post office for over an hour meeting voters. What does everyone want to talk about? - their hatred of the GST, said O'Reilly. He said many people complained about the sales tax which the Liberals have promised to change.

Do you know a Junior Citizen?

Each week the pages of this newspaper, and hundreds like it throughout Ontario, are filled with heartwarming stories of the people who are the heartbeat of our communities.

Especially uplifting are those which recognize the accomplishments of young people. Through acts of kindness, bravery, compassion and determination, these young people set an example of service and leadership for the entire community.

As Ontario's ambassador of good news, community newspapers have for the past 12 years been paying special recognition to Ontario's finest young people through the Ontario Junior Citizen of the Year Awards.

Co-ordinated by the Ontario Community newspapers Association, and with Bell Canada as the patron, the awards are presented each spring to 12 young people between the ages of six and 18 who have led by example, and in doing so have made their community a better place to live.

Award recipients and their families are guests of honour at the Junior Citizens luncheon, where the awards are presented by the Lieutenant Governor of Ontario during the annual spring convention of the OCNA.

Award nominees include those who contribute to community life while living with a physical or psychological limitation. Other nominees have faithfully volunteered their time and energy in community service work or have responded unselfishly in a moment of crisis. Many others are honoured as Junior Citizens because they exemplify the characteristics of a "good kid" -- the helpful courteous kind you'll find in each and every community in the province.

People are invited to nominate deserving young people for an award by obtaining a nomination form from The Times.

Today's Junior Citizen is tomorrow's community leader. Do you know one?

Don't miss your opportunity to grill the candidates. They will be in Minden this Wednesday for a forum at Hyland Crest starting at 7:30 p.m.

Visitor finds more wheelchair accessibility in the Highlands

Editor:

Since my husband and I had an opportunity to visit the Highlands this past week, I wish to commend two businesses for wheelchair accessibility.

The properties of the E/J Motel were extremely helpful in making their facility available and accessible for my power wheelchair. We appreciate their willingness to accommodate us and to take action in providing the necessary extra ramping when they were made aware of the need. Hats off to E/J.

I was also able to make my first entrance into the CIBC. I am impressed with the total accessibility. Your community can be proud of this new facility.

In our travels around the county we have noticed some other businesses and offices who have either improved upon or made new wheelchair access available to everyone. I would encourage others who have not yet done so to bring your facility up to code, and in doing so consider the potential customers who have mobility difficulties. After all, one never knows the future. The next person who may need a ramp may be 'you'.

The new "wheelchair parking" in the community is also a great addition. I know everyone will respect these signs and leave the spaces for those of us who need them.

Fighting to restore the human condition

Editor:

I recently followed the David Suzuki Reflections column in your paper with great interest; particularly the article concerning the "human upheaval" that resulted at the dawn of industrialization. It reminded me that many of the early settlers in Canada were laid off in the old world as a result of the Industrial Revolution. If this sounds familiar, it should.

With their skills outdated because of advances in technology, many were forced to indulge in petty crimes to provide for their families. Those who were unfortunate enough to get caught got free passage to Australia, in chains. At that time you were a criminal (poacher) if you fished in someone else's stream. Those in power it seems, had simply chosen to resolve the growing problem of workforce refugees by purchasing new countries cheap (for beads or bullets) and shipping the problems away. It can also be argued that slavery and child labour have also enjoyed vogue periods as wealth generating concepts of those in power.

Humanity, however, has now run out of beads and destinations for the dispossessed. Add to this the fact that Atilla The Corp. Hun can now cross humanities borders with relative ease (NAFTA etc.) and you begin to get worried. Do the bullets come next? In reality, however, we have in our collective ignorance and usually under duress wrestled the root of this problem around for generations. It's called blind greed.

A descendant of the Industrial Revolution called the Information Age is now empowering average people with the tools they need to make yet another stand for reality. Individuals, by nature it seems, are much more adaptable than financial or other empires. With our new-found access to information, and our inherent flexibility we can continue the fight anew.

Perhaps, given this fresh start, we will succeed in our demands that "the human condition" and Planet Earth too, be included in the crude economic-only indicators we have used to measure our success.

The Macdonaldization of sports writing

If I ever needed a brain transplant, I'd choose a sports writer's, because I'd want a brain that had never been used
—Norm Van Brocklin

Good old Norm was a football player back in the 1960 who was known for long yards and a short fuse. He was especially quick-tempered around sports writers. Especially when they asked stupid questions.

Which sports writers do a good deal of the time. But then, look what they have to work with. After all, million-dollar shortstops and megabuck goalies don't exactly have to be a Rhodes Scholars to do what they do for a living. Aside from their God-given ability, athletes only need about five cliches to deke their way through the average sports interview.

"Knuckles, how much would you say each player is giving out there today?"

"Ummmmmm, I'd say about a hunnert an' ten per cent, Floyd."

"And how are you going to finish the race for the pennant?"

"Uhhhhh... we're gonna play it one game at a time."

"And how would you describe your teammates?"

"I'd say that they came to play, Floyd."

"What about your opponents?"

Black 'n White

by Arthur Black

"Uhh...well, ya gotta remember, they put on their skates/cleats/running shoes/jock straps one leg at a time, Floyd."

"And what's the most important thing to remember when you're bearing down on that goal/hoop/one-yard/dartboard/pool cue?"

"Duhhh, I'd say concentration, Floyd."

Somebody once asked the great Gordie Howe if he was bilingual. Gordie replied:

"All hockey players are bilingual - they speak English and profanity."

Well, some athletes are trilingual. Yogi Berra comes to mind. The famous Yankee catcher spoke a dialect so convoluted and esoteric that he was its only known practioner. Some famous Barraisms:

"You can learn a lot by watching."

"If the people don't wanna come out to the ballpark, nobody's gonna stop them."

"A nickel ain't worth a dime anymore."

"Ninety-nine per cent of this game is half-mental."

Yogi wasn't the only sports figure to mangle the language. When someone asked Georgia basketball coach Hugh Graham to describe his philosophy, Graham replied:

"It's not how good you can play when you play good. It's how good you play when you play bad as good as anyone in the country."

With raw material like that, it's no wonder sports writers strike out once in a while.

But perhaps not for much longer. I shudder to report that there is a new computer program available from a firm in Missouri. It's aimed at newspapers which regularly carry high school football summaries, and it kind of cuts out the middle man - which is to say, the sports writers. What the Zybrainics Sportswriter Program does is submit a questionnaire to the coach of the team. The questionnaire has spaces for opponent, game date, game location and weather.

Then it has a series of blanks, preceded by questions such as: In comparison to our talent, opponent was: Clearly inferior/ roughly equal/ clearly superior.

Assessment of your team's performance (Coach's quote).

Game winning score or play: Quarter/time/ description (start with player name).

The MacDonaldization of sports reporting. It had to come.

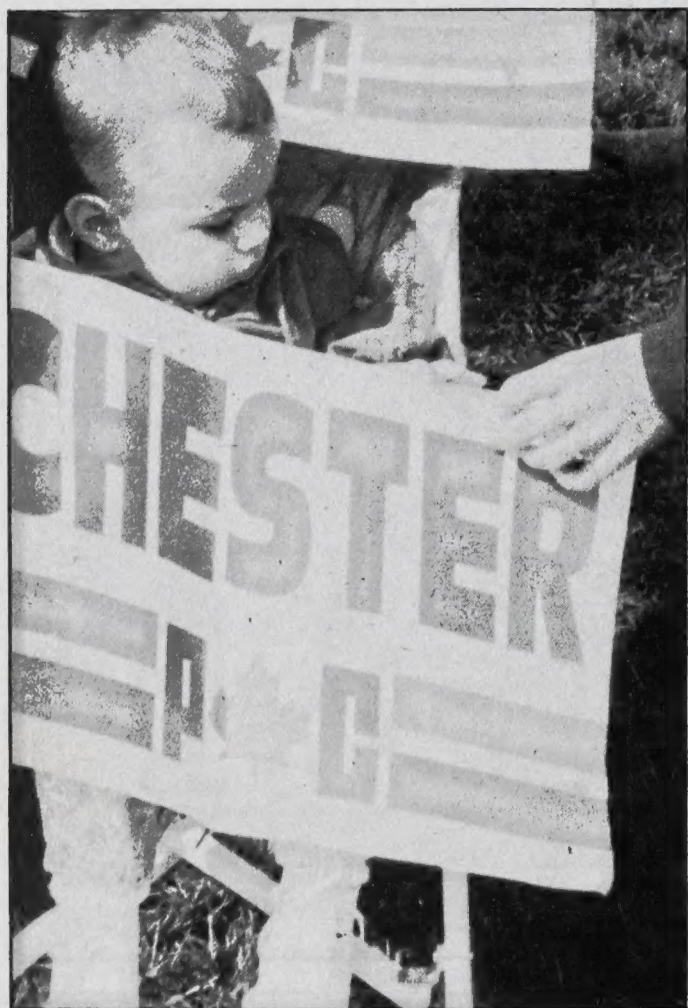

Reminds me of the story about the excuse Milwaukee Brewers infielder Jim Gantner used to explain why he missed a scheduled interview on a radio show. "Jeez...I clean forgot. I musta had ambrosia."

PCs won't let students in on the game

A group of Toronto students in Minden recently to study the local history and geography were shown courtesy by everyone in town - everyone that is, but the local PC campaign office where they were rudely told not to bother anyone. The students, from Earl Haig Secondary School, visited several local businesses and institutions (including The Times office) and they said the only place to give them trouble was the PC campaign office.

According to their teachers, Lorne Chester campaigners told the young students to leave because they were not of voting age. One student told

Give me that: While this little tot wanted to play, elections are not for kids according to Minden PC workers.

Election Notes

us that he would be telling his parents not to vote Conservative in his Toronto riding.

It doesn't take an Einstein to figure out who these students will not be voting for in the next federal election when they are old enough to register.

Shame on those campaigners who tried to give Minden a bad reputation.

Athlete's Foot

Speaking of those thorny Tories, candidate Lorne Chester (who fancies himself a runner) put his foot in his mouth a few times in Fenelon Falls last Tuesday night. Answering a question from a Mr. Korr, Chester referred to the man as "Mr. Whore". Later on, Chester said those firms which had closed and moved south during the PC reign folded up because of "poor ownership and poor management" and not because of free trade. Maybe so, maybe not. But way to catch the attention of those 1,200 or so folks who lost their jobs because of it.

Hello, Where Am I?

Lorne Chester wasn't the only person to have a bad week. Liberal leader Jean Chretien was on shaky ground as well. During one rally, Chretien said how pleased he was to be in Manitoba. The only problem was that he was in New Brunswick at the time. Understandably, Chretien took the next day off.

We Three Wanna-Bees

So far the riding has been visited by three would-be Prime Ministers, but a fourth may be more difficult. Party officials say NDP leader Audrey McLaughlin will apparently only be visiting those ridings where the candidate stands a chance of winning, which is in only 65 of the 295.

It would be fairly safe to say that since the party has nine incumbents in Ontario who are running for their lives that Ms. McLaughlin will not be visiting the Victoria-Haliburton riding to boost Cathy Vainio's campaign.

Fax Me Baby

Just as they are neck and neck in the national polls, the Liberals and Conservatives tied in the weekly fax wars. Each party submitted 10 sheets of fax paper for our perusal while the third place Reform Party had six. The PCs had the lead early, but failed to hang on.

Insults

Kim Campbell said the Liberal job plan was "absurd."

Jean Chretien said Campbell insulted the intelligence of the electorate by refusing to discuss issues.

Audrey McLaughlin said the PCs are deliberately hiding a white paper which shows massive cuts in social spending.

National Party's Mel Hurtig blasted the Toronto press for not giving him the time of day and the free trade agreement for decreasing the time of many workers' days.

Preston Manning failed to insult anyone. Tsk, tsk Preston, you're not playing the game.

Football x 2

The Haliburton Highlands Redmen football teams are in action for their home opener this Friday. Last year both the junior and senior teams won the Kawartha West.

Falcons shot down by Redmen

FENELON FALLS- As a football team, the senior Fenelon Falls Falcons make lousy fortune tellers.

Behind 22-0 at the half, the Falcons failed to follow up on their second half chant of "Redmen, Deadmen" and were clipped by the Haliburton Highlands Redmen at game's end 41-0.

The steady Redmen relentlessly poured down field, wearing out the Falcons. During the opening possession it looked like the Redmen were to score easily, but a third and 14 gamble failed to click and the Falcons took over on downs. It didn't matter though, the Redmen scored on their very next turn as quarterback Jay Hughes scampered 10 yards for the major, the only scoring in the first quarter.

The offence was in full gear for the second quarter scoring two touchdowns. The first was a quarterback sneak and the second a one-yard line drive by tailback Andy Bacon. The second major was set up by a great catch and run between Hughes and Peter Van Leeuwen.

In between the two scores the Falcons conceded a safety on the kick-off after the first score. The only problem the Redmen had was with the conversion attempts as only two of three were made. The missed attempt was caused by a high snap and kicker Jamie Keefer never had a chance.

The score, as bad as it is, actually flatters the Falcons who were badly outplayed and outthrustled. At one point in the second half the team's coach came on the field during a time-out and gave his players a blast, but it failed to inspire them. On the very next play Andy Bacon blasted through the line to make the score 28-0. The conversion attempt was wide to the left.

Later in the third quarter Hughes made it 34-0 with his third TD of the day, this time neatly evading the Falcon defence on a 20 yard run. Hughes added a fourth TD in the fourth quarter to make it 41-0.

The score could have been worse, but the Redmen were hurt by penalties. Three touchdowns and one interception return were called back because of penalties. The defence was not on the field too often, but when they were they overpowered the Falcon line forcing the quarterback and backfield towards the wrong end zone. Special teams also played a key role as nearly every punt return was returned close to the original line of scrimmage setting up great field position for the offence. As one Falcon fan said, "What do they feed these Haliburton guys - raw meat?" Nope just a few wings.

Andy Bacon (36) was one of the stars in the senior Haliburton Redmen 41-0 win over the Fenelon Falls Falcons.

In the afternoon's second game the junior Redmen showed they're no slouches when it comes to football, defeating their Falcon counterparts 34-2.

The Redmen scored on their opening possession with Tim Stoufer scrambling 37 yards for the major. The convert was good and the Redmen were up 7-0.

In the second quarter the Falcons got their only points of the game when a series of penalties backed the Redmen up to their own goal line. On a third and plenty, quarterback Colin Klages conceded a safety rather than risk giving up excellent field position.

The Redmen increased their lead to 15-2 when Andrew McKelvey ran nine yards for a major and then Klages connected on a two point conversion pass.

In the second half the Redmen increased their lead to 34-2 as the Falcons seemed tired and disorganized. An excellent start for the juniors who, along with the seniors, hope to repeat 6-0 seasons.

Duck season opening relatively quiet

by Jerry Grozelle

Officials from the Minden Ministry of Natural Resources office report a relatively quiet opening of the 1993 waterfowl season.

The season officially got underway at first light on Monday, September 20 in the Northern Region. The Northern and Southern region boundary for part of the district is divided by Highway 503.

The Monday morning opening may have been a contributing factor in the fact that hunter numbers were down. Conservation Officer Barry Walker said Thursday that he expected more hunting activity on Friday evening and Saturday. Waterfowl seasons in the Southern Region opened Saturday.

Bill Hutson, the MNR's Minden South Area Supervisor, said that in spite of a decrease in hunter numbers, a few charges were laid. The most serious of those charges involved a few people in the West Guilford area hunting over bait.

Others included hunting ducks without a migratory bird license, unencased firearms after legal shooting hours and shooting later than one half hour after sunset.

"It was pretty quiet. There didn't seem to be as many hunters out," Hutson said. "The harvest seemed to be down a bit."

As a general observation, Walker said: "There appear to be fewer birds. I was up in the helicopter for a little while yesterday and we didn't see very much."

Redmen soccer teams take three of four

Seniors outscore Lindsay opposition 11-0 in two games

by Andy Holloway

The senior Haliburton Redmen soccer team was on a roll last Wednesday at the high school, outscoring its opposition 11-0 in a two game mini-tournament.

The seniors demolished the LCVI Spartans 8-0 early in the morning and then defeated the I.E. Weldon Wildcats 3-0 in a closer afternoon match.

In the opening match the Redmen received hat tricks from Jonathan Bishop and Nico Haedické, each of whom performed the task in just one half. Bishop scored three of the four first-half goals the Redmen scored to open up a big early lead.

After taking a pass from Bill Bradley, Bishop kicked a high arcing shot that found the back of the net over the outstretched fingers of the Spartans' goalie and the Redmen were quickly up 1-0.

Moments later Darren Parsons finished off a beautiful three-way passing play to make it 2-0. Before the Spartans could recover Parsons sent a breakaway pass to Bishop who made no mistake and the Redmen were up by three. Close to the half Bishop made it 4-0 by tapping in an easy one.

The second half held more of the same for the Spartans as Haedické scored three and Bill Bradley picked up a single.

*Take that LCVI
and this as well*

Andrew Wilbee (centre in white) was one of the stars in the junior Haliburton Redmen's first win of the year, a 3-2 squeaker over the LCVI Spartans. Wilbee played a strong game upfront where he scored twice and in the midfield as shown here battling for the ball with two Spartans.

Juniors beat LCVI lose to Weldon

Not only was the offence in gear, but the defence also played well clearing the few chances the Spartans managed to get. Coach Walter Tose gave his team high marks for their effort including the fullbacks and backfield who were "quite outstanding". The only player who didn't get much action was goalie Bruce Milne who could have left the game for much of the time.

"Bruce must have been bored, LCVI only had two or three chances to score during the game," said Tose.

The second game proved tougher as the Wildcats were determined not to be blown away like their Lindsay counterpart. The Redmen did, however, jump out to a 1-0 lead with Haedicke scoring his fourth of the day. The goal was in the first half and with the wind.

In the second half, Bishop added two more goals to his day's tally to complete the scoring. Bishop told Tose that he had scored more goals in one day than in his previous three years at HHSS.

"It was as close as I had expected. I was more nervous about facing I.E. Weldon having seen them play before," said Tose.

Tose was also nervous when Parsons was knocked out for around 15 minutes by some rough play in the second half against LCVI. Parsons was OK as was Haedicke who received a cleat in the shin as a result of a rough tackle.

The juniors fared pretty well in their first games of the year splitting the two games they played. Against the Spartans the Redmen were 3-2 winners with a late second half goal by Jason Corby being the difference.

The Redmen jumped out to an early 1-0 lead when Andrew Wilbee scored during a scramble in front of the Spartans' net. The Spartans tied it up on another scramble, this time after a direct kick.

Wilbee put the Redmen up by one before the half after making a nice run up the right side and poking one home.

As the second half opened the Spartans made a big push to score and after being thwarted twice by great saves they succeeded in tying the game up on a fluke - a corner kick deflected off a Redmen defender and into the net.

Jason Corby then scored the game winner when the Spartans' goalie mishandled a shot by Wilbee.

The Redmen were not so lucky in their second game and were blanked 2-0 by the Wildcats. The team had a couple of great opportunities to score including a penalty kick, but could not break the goose egg.

With Fenelon Falls dropping out of the league - apparently due to social contract cutbacks - both the junior and senior loops have just three teams, necessitating the mini-tournament play. Both teams are in Lindsay this Wednesday as LCVI hosts a tournament. The teams then have a week off before playing the Wildcats in Lindsay and then returning home against the Spartans on October 20.

In Brief

On the run

The Terry Fox Run raised more than $900 in Haliburton on September 19. There were nearly 40 runners participating in the local run and countless thousands across Canada. Gary Brohman was the most successful fund raiser collecting $230.

In Bancroft the local run took in over $1,000 despite having just 24 runners participating. Claude and May Allison raised the largest amount collecting $293. All of the proceeds go towards cancer research. The run has been held for the past 12 years to commemorate Terry Fox who attempted to run cross Canada in 1980 despite having lost a leg to bone cancer. After 143 days, Fox was forced to stop by a recurrence of cancer in Thunder Bay. Fox died the following year.

New snow card

The Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs has launched a major new Sled Smart marketing program to promote Ontario's trail permit sales. The OFSC hopes to sell 100,000 trail permits, up 30 per cent over last year. In 1992, OFSC membership increased by 25 per cent.

Central to the success of the program is the OFSC Smart Sled Card which entitles snowmobilers to year-round special offers and bonus considerations from various companies throughout the province. The card will accompany every permit sold this season at no extra cost. OFSC permits are on sale until December 1 for $65. After that date the permit will cost $80. The permit allows a snowmobiler to ride on over 35,000 kilometres of trails including the new TOP (Trans Ontario Provincial) Trail Network.

Defending the goal

Both Haliburton Highlands Secondary School field hockey teams had a successful beginning to their season openers last Tuesday against their respective partners from Lakefield Collegiate. The juniors played to a scoreless tie with goalie Mandy Harrison making a number of great saves to keep Haliburton in the game. Lakefield played much of the game in Haliburton's end, including the play in the photo at left, as four defenders take on one Lakefield player. The seniors had a bit more scoring punch and defeated Lakefield 2-1. Lindsay Francis, assisted by Stacy Bunn and Nicole Graham, and Jenn Bradford assisted by Kim Smith were the goal scorers for Haliburton.

ACID RAIN

'People say the problem is licked. It's not really'

(From page 1)

-tario that will continue to suffer the effects of acidification. Reduced emissions of sulphur dioxide from factories in Canada and the U.S. have lessened the impact, but sensitive areas like Haliburton County continue to be hit with more acid than they can handle.

"People say the problem is licked," says Orr. "It's not really." He points to the findings of a recent Royal Society of Canada report that predicts acid rain will continue to cause problems in sensitive areas until further cuts in sulphur dioxide emissions are achieved.

Still, things have improved. Plastic Lake, for example, is holding its own, says Hutchinson. The small lake on Sherbourne Lake Road has served as a natural laboratory for more than a decade of studies that have formed the basis of political decisions in Canada and the United States. Continued monitoring of this lake shows it has stabilized. It's not yet recovering, but neither is it growing more acidic, says Hutchinson.

The greatest gains in this fight have been political decisions -- decisions, however, that have demanded sustained pressure and tireless research. Because acid rain is an international problem, the solution lies in co-operation of provincial, state and federal governments. Getting that co-operation from the U.S. government was a huge task, considering former president Almost 75 per cent of the acid falling over Haliburton originates in the U.S.

Ronald Reagan initially dismissed acid rain as a myth.

With research demonstrating damage to aquatic life, trees and even buildings, political attitudes began to change. Ontario set the pace with its Countdown Acid Rain program that aimed to cut sulphur dioxide emissions by 60 per cent by 1994. The main sources of acid rain in Ontario (Hydro, Inco, Falconbridge and Algoma Steel) are all on target.

In 1990 president George Bush agreed to amend the U.S. Clean Air Act to cut sulphur dioxide emissions in half -- a significant gain for Haliburton County, since 75 per cent of the acid dropped here originates in the U.S.

This progress was enough to cause the Canadian Coalition on Acid Rain to disband two years ago, but it is not enough to say acid rain is no longer a problem. In fact, researches say areas like Muskoka and Haliburton will continue to suffer even after all the emission controls are in place. For these sensitive areas to recover, emissions would have to be halved again.

Considering the attention being paid to this issue, that sort of progress seems unlikely.

Help wanted: SIRCH needs volunteers to help others in need

by Andy Holloway

Events like a sudden death, suicide, fire, robbery or a major accident have a big psychological impact on not only those directly involved, but also their family and friends who provide a support system to aid recovery.

But what if that support system is not set up or not readily available? Where is the support one needs to rebound after a traumatic experience? Emergency crews are busy taking care of the physical damage caused to people and the environment, but no one is around to look after the emotional needs.

In rural locations this problem can be even more profound because hospitals, police staff and other emergency teams are stretched to the limit of their resources anyway.

For all the above reasons, a local agency is trying to close the gap between a traumatic experience and the recovery period by providing some help and emotional support.

SIRCH, a charitable association in the county, is recruiting volunteers for a new crisis assistance program it hopes to have up and running by Christmas time. The need, say agency workers, is great in this county and in other areas as well.

"There are a large number of people in the community who don't have large families around and haven't set up a support system," says Betty Pollard, a SIRCH worker.

Pollard lists cottagers, the number of people who pass through the area daily on their way to someplace else, as well as those who are new to the area or whose family and friends are far away as those who could benefit from such a crisis assistance program.

Another SIRCH employee Gena Robertson gives a recent example of the use the program could have. Last winter there was a major accident on Highway 118 just south of Haliburton. A woman was killed in the accident, but the driver of the other vehicle, who was from out of the county, was physically unharmed. However, being involved in an accident results in confusion and is emotionally draining, particularly when someone is hurt or killed.

"The police were busy and there was no one to take the driver aside and just talk with him," says Robertson.

If someone else had been present the driver would have had someone to lean on and help make arrangements. Some of the things a volunteer helper could have done include phoning relatives, providing support, finding a place to stay or in a worst-case scenario help to make funeral arrangements - what Robertson calls the "down-to-earth, practical matters" that demand attention even when someone is unable to do so.

Both Pollard and Robertson say they have been involved in accidents where some extra help and support, even if just for a few hours, would have been appreciated.

Assistance would not be given in every case and is not designed to replace long-term assistance programs provided by other agencies and SIRCH. The assistance will be offered to a person by hospital, police, fire protection personnel or

Don't Agree To Anything Until You've Seen The Used Vehicle Information Package.

Are you planning to buy or sell a used vehicle privately?

Starting on October 4, 1993, the requirements for private sales of used vehicles will change.**

Getting the answers to some important questions hasn't always been easy. How many previous owners were there? Are there any loans still outstanding against the vehicle?

These questions will now be answered in a Used Vehicle Information Package.

As of October 4, 1993, private sellers will be required to buy a Used Vehicle Information Package before offering a vehicle for sale. When potential buyers come to view the vehicle, the seller must hand them the information package to read. When the vehicle is sold, the seller must give the Used Vehicle Information Package to the buyer along with the vehicle documents.

When the new owner registers the vehicle at a Driver and Vehicle Licence Issuing Office, the Used Vehicle Information Package must be submitted with the other vehicle documents to complete the transaction. Otherwise, the transfer of registration will be refused.

If a private seller doesn't offer the Used Vehicle Information Package, buyers should ask to see the package before making any decision to buy the vehicle.

The Used Vehicle Information Package can be purchased for $20.00 from any Driver and Vehicle Licence Issuing Office or from the Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations 24 hours a day by using a credit card and calling 1-800-267-8847 outside Toronto, or 325-8847 in Toronto. Telecommunication Device for the Deaf is available at 1-800-461-8866 or 326-8866 in Toronto.

A brochure with tips on buying or selling a used vehicle is also available at any Driver and Vehicle Licence Issuing Office or through the telephone numbers listed.

**These changes do not apply to either trade-ins or purchases from Ontario Registered Motor Vehicle Dealers

Norland library plans progressing

Council aims for January move to new facilities as project goes to tenders

by Jerry Grozelle

Representatives from the Victoria County Library Board, Dave Brohm and Janet Booth, attended last Tuesday's meeting of Laxton, Digby and Longford Council to go over plans for the new library facility in Norland.

Council viewed blueprints of the library and the entrance ramp. A few minor changes were recommended and Council decided to refer the plans to the Library Committee.

To expedite the matter, Council authorized the committee to prepare and advertise tenders for the renovation of part of the old school/new municipal office, subject to the changes discussed at the council meeting.

Tenders must be received at the municipal office by 4 p.m. on October 5, in time to be opened at that evening's meeting of Council.

Booth couldn't be pinned down in regard to an exact target date for the relocation from the old library on Highway 35 in Norland but she said she would be shooting for a late January move, pending completion of the renovations.

A total of $2,698 in library donations have been received.

Briefly

from Laxton, Digby, Longford Council

Permit Problems

Camp Inn owner Steve Dasovic was asked to attend Tuesday's council meeting to answer some questions regarding buildings at his trailer park east of Highway 505 on Duck Lake.

Deputy-Reeve Mike Riordon expressed his concern that the number of Florida rooms, decks and storage sheds that have been built don't coincide with the number of building permits that have been issued. He said Township records show that 35 building permits have been issued since 1986 (20 since 1990). Riordon pointed out that building permits valued at as much as $6,250 may have been required while records show that less than $600 worth have been purchased.

During a recent visit to the park, Riordon said that he counted as many as 206 structures that may have required a building permit. Eighty-three of the structures were storage sheds. Dasovic estimated that 95 per cent of those sheds were under the size limit that requires a building permit.

During his investigation Riordon said he was insulted by innuendos that someone other than Chief Building Inspector and By-

Law Enforcement Officer Margaret LeCraw had issued building permits. He instructed Dasovic to "tell everyone in your park that if they want to build anything, they have to go through the township."

Riordon made it clear that nobody is going to get away with not paying their fair share.

"We are going to enforce our by-laws to the limit," he said. "We are going to get to the bottom of what has been built and what has been charged."

Adding his comments, Councilor John Macklem said: "We want a nice, clean environment for everybody in the township."

"This is just business," he told Dasovic, "nothing personal."

Reeve Doug Horton was also disturbed to hear rumors of unauthorized personnel issuing permits.

"There is only one person in this township authorized to issue building permits," he stated.

Dasovic promised his full cooperation to get the situation straightened out.

New Policy

LDL will now be requiring a $500 deposit from anyone wishing to apply to purchase unused municipality-owned shore road allowance. The deposit will be used to cover administrative costs and to offset the cost of advertising, which is required before any municipal property can be sold.

In the past, such fees were not recovered until after the transaction had been completed.

Cottagers scared by bear looking for a free hand-out

by Andy Holloway

A Toronto couple received the scare of their lives as a hungry black bear decided to closely investigate their Big Bob Lake cottage two weeks ago.

Harold and Beryl Skupek of Etobicoke had never seen a bear up in the Highlands during their 29 years cottaging here, and were quite taken aback when one decided to pay them a personal visit.

The bear may have been attracted to the cottage by the smell of the pork chops Beryl was cooking and the leftovers the couple had been leaving a stray cat. In any case it was probably a good thing they had put up their winter storm windows earlier that week because the bear took a liking to something.

"He went to every window, I don't know how he didn't break in," says Harold.

The bear visited each window putting his head up to the glass to get a better look. The bear also visited the porch, tool shed and the out-house. The Skupeks never saw the bear leave, but were literally trapped since they do not have a phone.

"You could feel something give when he put his paws up against the windows," says Beryl.

When in town later they approached the Ministry of Natural Resources who told them that if the bear returns and becomes a nuisance to give them a call again. The MNR recommended that the next time a bear comes around to make a lot of noise.

The Skupeks have been eating baloney sandwiches and hard boiled eggs the past few days so that there would not be any tempting odors escaping the cottage.

The story could have a sad ending. The Skupeks heard gunshots two days later and some loud exclamations and fear the bear has met an untimely demise at the hands of some hunters.

Bear season ended a few weeks ago.

Agency needs help in order to help others

Telecare, but does not need to be taken. Pollard says SIRCH has already spoken to those agencies and everyone has been very positive about the proposal so far.

The program is not just for those who have suffered an injury. Robertson says people whose houses have been robbed or who have been mugged also experience fearful emotions that have to be dealt with. Just being alone after a robbery can be a trying experience.

In the province there are three similar crisis programs in place, all based on police departments and run by paid workers. This program is more wide-ranging and is staffed by volunteers. SIRCH needs around 50 people to help with the project and for those interested in helping you can call 457-1742 and ask for Betty Pollard or Gena Robertson.

Volunteers will be given a 40 hour training course to help them deal with events like suicide and crisis intervention, sudden deaths, grieving and learning communication and listening skills. They will be required to be on call for a one week period every rotation. No experience is needed, only a desire to help people.

The helpers are not professionals and can not give therapy or counselling. However, they are just regular people helping others cope with an unexpected event.

"The program gives a nice flavour because people are out there a few hours a day to help out...and they will help out," says Robertson.

Dorset hit by rash of thefts

Dorset break-ins

Late Monday evening Dorset was hit with a number of break-ins. The Sherborne Township Office, Dorset Recreation Complex, The Viceroy and Bowes and Cox building and the Dorset Fire Hall were all broken into. The culprit(s) attempted to enter the Dorset Liquor Store, but failed. Detective Constable MacMartin is investigating.

School vandalism

During the early morning hours of September 16 someone entered the construction site at Archie Stouffer Elementary School and spray painted the interior walls at the school. Someone also poured sand into the crankcase of a lift truck at the site. The damage has since been repaired.

Crafty elves ready for Santa's arrival

You better not pout, you better not cry, you better not shout, I'm telling you why...

Santa Claus is coming to town.

Not quite ready for Christmas? Don't worry, the folks over at The Christmas Studio near Ingoldsby have a tremendous selection of handcrafted gifts and decorations. The studio opened last weekend and will be open every weekend leading up to Santa's arrival.

The studio is the brainchild of Ingoldsby resident Mary Hincks. It was opened for the first time last year in the sunroom (a.k.a. Angel Room) of her home on Kashagawigamog Lake, housing a surprising collection of seasonal crafts from friends and neighbours.

Hincks says the studio was inspired by the many Christmas ornaments, decorations and original craft ideas and dolls made by her mother, Barbara Betts. "She was Christmas to me and always made it a very special time of the year."

The inspiration also came from neighbours and friends who liked the idea of a collective outlet for their crafts.

After its modest beginning in last year's pre-Christmas season, the studio is expanding somewhat this year. There simply wasn't enough space in the Angel Room (so named because it's filled with handcrafted angels), so Hincks convinced her husband that they should make room in the finished basement for more of a showroom.

In all there are 12 people involved in this year's collection. Their works include painted shirts, flower arrangements, stained glass, wood crafts, knitting, crocheting and painting. Although Christmas is the dominant theme, the studio also has a small display of Halloween items.

The Christmas Studio is open this Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. The hours for most other weekends are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. It is located on South Kashagawigamog Lake Road, one kilometre east of the bridge.

A super summer season for residents of South Lake

Submitted by Ken Brown

"We have had a wonderful summer and a very good year," said President Gerry Roy at the final 1993 Directors meeting of South Lake Association of Cottagers and Residents on September 19.

SLACAR could hardly take credit for endless weeks of bright sunshine, but the year-end review of association activities was cause for satisfaction. Our sense of accomplishment was broadly based, including sound finances, excellent member participation, civic and municipal involvement, social programs and lake planning with progress reported on every front.

Fifty years ago South Lake was bordered completely with farms, forest and a beaver dam; just a few modest buildings marked the beginnings of recreational life on our lovely lake. The farms are gone now, and the shoreline is dotted with handsome year-round homes and summer cottages. Fortunately, the beavers are still with us. We are now a community of residents devoted to the Haliburton lifestyle just three miles from Minden.

The top priority of our association is preservation and improvement of the quality of South Lake and its environs. This year our persistent lobbying and cooperation with the Ministry of Energy and the Environment has paid off. The MOEE conducted an intensive septic system survey of every property on the lake under careful direction of Mark Saigeon. Some new septic systems have already been installed and others are being upgraded pending final reports from the ministry.

Many thanks to our own Bill Kelly who has faithfully conducted lake testing for five years in conjunction with MOEE. Lake Steward John Hough and Bill paved the way for the completion of this important project.

Eleanor Lymers detailed our sound financial standing and continues to keep meticulous records of SLACAR books and meetings. Membership remains at a very high level, reported Phyllis Brown, since more than 87 per cent of lake residents are paid-up members.

Bob Martin continues monitoring township meetings. He also described a 'lake study' computer model soon to be implemented as part of our ongoing accumulation of data prepared by resident biologist Mike Roy.

The ingenious family of beavers that controls our lake water level continues to thwart the best engineering design of Special Projects director Kevin DeGrace. Kevin and his committee will match wits with the beavers once again this fall to restore the 'beaver baffle' to operating efficiency.

Civic responsibility combined with a social event is the hallmark of the annual South Lake Day held on August 14 this year. Thirty-five members of the 'Pitch In Gang' (PIGs), of all ages from kids to seniors, gathered at Ray Lymers that morning to scour the roadsides around the lake and clean up bottles, cans and debris. Wearing colourful 'PIG' emblems and armed with trash bags the gang patrolled the roadsides and lakeshore gathering 25 bags of refuse for consignment to the dump. Surely a display of civic pride in marked contrast to that careless motorist who would toss junk out of a truck or car window while passing the lake.

Phyllis DeGrace reported our 'PIG' gang then joined with SLACAR members, all dressed as cartoon characters, for an afternoon corn roast and picnic on the lawn of the DeGrace property overlooking the lake. A great afternoon of tasty hot corn, lemonade, hot dogs and games from horseshoes to the egg toss made for a memorable picnic. Bob Martin, dressed as Batman, was MC and in spite of a brief downpour of rain, kept events moving along well and purring. Black cat Phyllis and Cat in the Hat Kevin who were hosts for the day enthusiastically joined 90 gaily dressed guests in this friendly soiree enjoyed by all who attended. A tip of the battered top hat to Social Director Gail Rowett and her helpers Lance Taylor, the Lymers, Kellys, Martins, Phyllis Brown and Gerry Roy. Did Bill Erz really build that putting game? Great!

President Roy had good reason to commend the directors for a job well done as he adjourned the fall meeting. We wish our Minden friends a safe and warm winter.

Children's concert series a magical tour

Haliburton children will be treated to a magical tour around the world when the Haliburton County Children's Concert Series four-concert season begins November 7.

With assistance from business sponsors and the Ontario Arts Council, HCCCS is once again offering four concerts for children starting with Al Simmons, a musical one-man cast of thousands. His show, sponsored by Curry Motors, is entitled "Something's Fishy at Camp Wiganishie" and is on November 7.

One month later on December 5 Morgan's Journey is presented, sponsored by Northern Lights.

On February 6 Dick Smith and Syncona take children on a "Caribbean Cruise" sponsored by Cordell Carpets and Interiors. The final show in the series brings back the Join Hands Puppeteers with a new show "The magic Drum. The show is sponsored by Wee Care Day Nursery and is on April 10.

An HCCCS passport to all four shows costs $15 per person (or $55 for a family of four or more). Passports go on sale this Friday at the Minden Storeroom, Master's Bookstore in Haliburton, both CHACE Place locations and a small army of dedicated ticket sellers. For more information call 754-3512.

Preston Manning visits farm in riding

However, French language services would only be offered "on the basis of local demonstrative public demand". For example in Quebec French would be the primary language while in the rest of Canada English would predominate except in certain areas where there is a high proportion of French-speaking people.

Manning received loud applause for toughening up law and enforcement measures including the deportation of violent criminals not residents of Canada, toughening up the young offenders act and holding a national referendum on capital punishment.

Reforming the senate and the legislative process were also discussed and warmly received. "Members of Parliament ought to represent the riding and not follow the party line," said Manning. He added that the recall procedure would force MPs to listen to their constituents.

Liberal leader Jean Chretien also visited the area, but not the riding, when he stopped in Peterborough at a rally co-hosted by that riding and Victoria-Haliburton hopeful John O'Reilly. NDP leader Audrey McLaughlin is not expected to make an appearance in this area since it is not one of the good 65 NDP bets in the country.

A poem from Poet's Corner at Hyland Crest

Since Senior League correspondent Winnifred Barnum is away this week, the following poem written by the members of Poets Corner at Hyland Crest is presented.

Memorable Days of Haliburton County

I remember how it was a few short years ago,
How difficult it was to cope with the snow.
It was so deep, I walked the fence,
And to me that just made sense,
As trying to walk the drifts to town,
With one leg up and one leg down.
I wore the navy snow pants and braces too,
And under it all those old bloomers of blue.
The boys wore knickers and sometimes mackinaws,
When it was real cold, they wore an old coat of Pa's.

The spring time came and we enjoyed the sun,
The snow was melting and the fun had begun.
We wore galoshes to keep our feet from getting wet,
And left the clasps open for the attention we'd get.
As the boys would know before the setting of the sun,
With your boots open, it meant you were full of fun!

The summer came at the end of the spring,
And school was out, which was a wonderful thing.
As we looked forward to the old swimming hole,
Sometimes we fished with a worm and a pole.
A teepee was made from the branches of a tree,
The boys slept in there, and we couldn't see.
You'd come home from swimming with mud in your hair,
And sometime Mother knew we'd all been bare!

As summer wore on and we approached the fall,
With its beauty of leaves, crops and all;
You prepared for winter by salting the pork,

That you enjoyed in the winter from off your fork.
We canned vegetables, fruit, pickles and jam,
And sometimes we even smoked a ham.
If you were lucky enough to live in our county,
Your would reap the crops of a wonderful bounty.
The scenery is more beautiful than anywhere in the world,
The Lord loved this county so he left it unfurled.

If you live in the city and you come to our town,
You'll agree there's no beauty anywhere else around.

We've come full circle as our memories recall,
Of the things we remember of winter, spring,
summer and fall.

So visit our county and see what we mean,
It still is the closest to heaven that you've ever been.

Trent Severn water level report

On Monday, September 13 the Haliburton area reservoir lakes averaged 60.9 per cent of their maximum storage level. This was down just over 3 per cent in the six days after September 7 and was declining close to the long-term average of about 0.5 per cent per day.

To help prevent accumulating a large amount of water from a wet autumn, the flows from the reservoir lakes were increased during the week ending September 18.

Last year's wet weather in the fall resulted in spring-like flow conditions in places such as Minden, which we hope to avoid this year. Very wet weather such as that which occurred in 1992, of course, could result in this situation again despite these precautions.

Environment knocked off list of concerns by recession

Only a few years ago, the environment was consistently at the top of Canadian concerns and priorities, yet the recession seems to have knocked it off the list. That's only because conventional economists do not do their accounting properly.

Hazel Henderson has been an outspoken critic of economics and economists for years in her books "Creating Alternative Futures: The End of Economics," "Politics of the Solar Age: Alternatives to Economics" and most recently, "Paradigms in Progress: Life Beyond Economics" (Knowledge Systems Inc., Indianapolis, Ind.)

I spoke with her last week at a conference in Colorado as "Economics is a form of brain damage" was her opening shot. "Life is not about consuming or even producing, it's about learning. Economics is holding us back and stunting moral growth. Competition, selfishness, greed — these are what economists encourage. Our society runs on the seven deadly sins." Hazel is not known for subtlety.

Henderson told me: "Economics tells us self-interest is best. Students are taught in Economics 101 that sharing, caring, co-operation and loving are IRRATIONAL. Communities don't matter in economics because they are not in the calculations." Her thesis is that by being left out of the equation, communities and values like co-operation and sharing are inevitably degraded by the thrust of economics.

To Henderson, economics is ecologically destructive because the air, water, soil and living things that support all life are considered free goods and limitless. And "ecological economists" are simply entrepreneurs, she says, who have co-opted the language of environmentalism in order to capitalize on ecological concerns.

Thus, they attempt to assign dollar values on things such as rainforests whose real worth is spiritual and beyond costing. Right now on the Chicago Board of Trade, companies can buy or sell the RIGHT TO POLLUTE.

The Clean Air Act of 1991 assigned pollution standards for companies and those that pollute below their allotments can sell the rest of their share to over polluters! This kind of approach is encouraged by ecological economists. Henderson decries the "Plantation Model" of economic development whereby a town invites new companies by offering cheap land and labor, low taxes, lax environmental laws and tax incentives. The environmental and social costs of companies are carried by local taxpayers and once tax credits are used up, companies often leave for incentives in another town or country.

"And now, our economists are advising eastern countries, like the former Soviet bloc, to open markets with no regulations. Yet these countries already have high inflation and staggering unemployment. This is

Reflections

by David Suzuki

19th-century economics."

Henderson lambastes the inadequacy of economic indicators like GNP and GDP as measures of a country's well being. Half of all work performed in society never shows up on GDP or GNP because it is performed free — parenting, caring for the young, old and sick, volunteering for community service, and so on. Pollution of pristine waters by the Exxon Valdez oil spill didn't register on the U.S. GNP but the clean-up operations INCREASED it by $2 billion! We need to use other indicators of wealth and progress such as the UN's Human Development Index which incorporates statistics on literacy, life expectancy and purchasing power.

Henderson has formulated Country Futures Indicators which goes far beyond the money-dominated GNP to indicators like populations, species extinction, education, health, status of women, etc. World Bank senior economist, Herman Daly, has developed the Index of Sustainable Community Welfare.

In our obsession with economic growth, we seem to have lost perspective. "At the G-7 meeting in Tokyo" Henderson told me, "the leaders all said their new challenge is JOBLESS ECONOMIC GROWTH. Now that's an oxymoron. Economic growth was supposed to create jobs, but the real thrust has been growth with fewer people. Every country gives tax credits to companies that invest in machines and automation but what we really need is to give tax credits to companies who employ PEOPLE."

Henderson believes global economics is breaking down and fears a "global 1929" created by currency speculators. On the other hand, "billions of people are simply walking away from the global economy and this is the safest and best scenario. We must invent new local currencies to allow trade and barter locally and it is happening at the grassroots."

"An economy is a set of rules and each country has a different economy based on its own definition of what values it has. We set up rules to make the economy fulfill our needs. Human beings create economies and we shouldn't let economists regulate them." In the coming election, politicians must address Hazel Henderson's critique.

WSN benefit concert wows crowd

The secret is out. If the Women's Safety Network benefit concert on September 18 is any indication not only is the Shoop Group an energetic talented acapella group of local singers, but Haliburton, Minden and Carnarvon can also boast a wide variety of talent.

Proceeds from the concert are going towards building a women's shelter in the county as are proceeds from two previous concerts held by the WSN.

Glenda Burk of Haliburton started the evening off and she moved the audience with a polished performance and her dedication of songs to her late daughter.

Stanhope's Kris Kadwell and "friends" backed up Burk and later took centre stage themselves. With Al Sumpter and Barry Hayward the trio amused and entertained the audience with unique and original arrangements of popular and rock music.

Steve Badger was the evenings third act and his solo renditions of some Garth Brooks and Sawyer Brown ballads impressed the audience. The Shoop Group were a marked contrast to Badger's quieter tone as they came out strutting '50s style. The nine-member acapella group sang three songs in a perfect and fast-paced blend. Nine-year-old Alicia Sales wowed the crowd with her lead singing on "Why Do Fools Fall In Love."

The night's featured performer was Toronto music veteran Ken Whiteley. He had the audience singing along and tapping their toes to a wide variety of music including blues, gospel, folk and swing. Whiteley commended the crowd for coming and being a part both personally and financially, of such an important issue - that of family violence and the need for personal safety.

Rent guideline set at 3.2 %

The Ministry of Housing rent review guideline for 1994 has been set at 3.2 per cent. The new guideline, which takes effect January 1, 1994, is simply that, a guideline. An amount by which a landlord can increase the maximum rent for a unit during the year without an approval from the Ministry of Housing.

A tenant does not have to accept a rent increase at or below the guideline and may challenge an increase by applying to the Rent Review Board.

Ninety days written notice of any increase must be given and can only be raised once in each 12-month period, even when a new tenant moves in.

If you require further information or wish to challenge an increase, contact the Rent Review Board by calling toll-free Zenith 96000. Brochures and rental information are available at your nearest Information Centre in Haliburton or Minden.

IN MEMORIAM

BANNON - In loving memory of our dear son Ken and granddaughter Sandra who passed away September 26, 1991.

No matter how we spend our days

IN MEMORIAM

No matter what we do,
Before we close our eyes at night
We always think of you.
Sadly missed by June, Ken and family.

KIMBLE - In memory of Perry Allan who left us September 20, 1992.

In the Village of Minden graveyard
Where God's gentle breezes blow,
Lies the one we love so much
That we lost a year ago.
Time goes on with many changes
Joys and sorrows, smiles and tears,
But his memory will be cherished
With the passing of the years.
Our God knows the pain and sorrow
With the loss of one so dear
Yet he leaves us with loving memories
That will always keep him near.
Now Perry lives with Him in heaven.
Where tears and sorrow have no place.

For the love of God surrounds him
In His comforting embrace.
"And I give unto them eternal life and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand" JOHN 10:28.
Lovingly remembered by favourite Aunts, Uncles and Cousins.

IN MEMORIAM

KIMBLE - In loving memory of our loving son, brother, Dad & Uncle, Perry Allan, who left us September 20, 1992.

Perry has a place in heaven
Forget your grief and fears,
For he is in a perfect place
Away from pain and tears.
He is far away from hunger
And hurt and want and pride,
He has a place in heaven
With the Master at his side.
His life on earth was very good
As earthly lives can go,
But Paradise is so much more
Than anyone can know.
His heart is filled with happiness
And sweet rejoicing too,
To walk with God
In perfect peace,
A joy forever new.
Here speaks the Comforter, tenderly saying "Earth has no sorrow that heaven cannot cure".
Lovingly cherished in our hearts forever: Mother and Dad, Beverly, Timothy & Amanda, Shannon & Harold & Emily and Joshua.

MISCIO - In loving memory of my dear father Mike who passed away September 25, 1972.
Poppa I often sit and think of you
When I am all alone
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.
Sadly missed by daughter Vera.

IN MEMORIAM

MISCIO - In loving memory of my dear father, Mike, who passed away September 25, 1972.

Poppo your presence I miss
Your memory I treasure,
Loving you always,
Forgetting you never.
Loved and sadly missed by daughter Nell.
